Fire Administration, National Fire Data Center, 1988. OCLC Number: (OCoLC)71313982 Subject: Ammonium perchlorate -- Fires and fire prevention. Excerpt: . . . USFA-TR-020 May 1988 5 station. The other Henderson companies en route to the scene stopped where they were on their own volition after the explosion (about one mile away). Approximately four minutes after the first major explosion, the second large explosion occurred. Witnesses reported that this explosion created a visible shock wave coming toward them across the ground. Several videotape recordings of the explosions were made by people in the area, graphically demonstrating the movement of the shock wave. The second major explosion virtually destroyed the chiefs car. The chief and his passenger were cut by flying glass, but he was able to drive the damaged vehicle to a hospital to seek treatment. The windshields of the responding Henderson Fire Department apparatus were blown in, and the drivers and officers were injured by the shattered glass. The Henderson Fire Department was essentially totally incapacitated by the second major explosion. The injuries...

Reviews

Great electronic book and useful one. It can be written in straightforward terms rather than difficult to understand. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

The most effective ebook I possibly read. It was actually written quite completely and useful. I am just very happy to tell you that here is the best publication we have read through during my individual daily life and could be the greatest publication for possibly.
