Not illustrated. 1915 Excerpt: .Dr. Buckingham has furnished a scale.<sup>1</sup> At first it made use of two lists, each containing twentyfive carefully selected words which showed reasonably regular increase in correctness of spelling for successive grades. By means of this scale a comparison can be made of individuals, grades, schools, and systems. By the use of groups of equally difficult words, progress over a period of time can be measured. Dr. Buckingham has extended his list to about 500 words and plans to have 1,000 carefully evaluated and classified words for Grades II-VIII, inclusive. Such an extension will make the scale infinitely more useful. The Division of Education of the Russell Sage Foundation has conducted studies to discover the 1,000 words most commonly used in writing and it has made these words into spelling lists with which children in nearly 100 American cities have been tested. <sup>11</sup> These words will doubtless prove valuable in the preparation of a minimum list. Dr. Ayres has used them as a standard by means of which he has made a practical test of the spelling ability of Springfield, Illinois, elementary-school children. In this city 3,612 pupils in all grades averaged 70 per cent correct in spelling words which were spelled correctly by 70 per cent of the pupils in the same grades of the cities mentioned before. CONCLUSIONS Any conclusions must necessarily be merely tentative, because of the inadequate material at hand and the lack of thorough testing of results. It can be confidently...
